- Thinking back, things I want to improve: I want to become a source of guidance for incoming mentors
- I think having had 2 semesters of experience as an SM has allowed me to fully understand the dynamics that exist within CSM and that I'm now qualified to be part of exec.
- I want to also be a source of guidance to more people, and I think there are still a lot of changes that can be made in order to increase the quality of teaching we provide.

Interconnectedness is very important in CSM, and I think a large part of that is being able to improve the JM experience. Ever since the exec meeting I've been thinking about how I could imporve the JM experience, and one way I'd like to contribute to that is to to provide JMs with better ways to engage wtih the rest of CSM.

This is one thing I felt that was particularly lacking in CSM when I was a JM, and I don't believe that it's improved very much since then. One thing that could help is to give JMs more ways to interact with other SMs, and make them feel like they truly do matter when it comes to the collaborative effort that is CSM70.

I also think that guides are a large way I can contribute – I've since
